

You are walking through a quiet woodland clearing when you notice something unusual between the moss and tree roots. Resting in a small nest of leaves is a large, scaled egg that shimmers in shades of green and gold. It feels warm to the touch... and you think you see it move slightly.

Write a story about what happens next.

- Who finds the egg?
- Why is it there?
- What hatches from it?
- Is the creature friendly, dangerous, or something unexpected?
 - What problems – or adventures – does it bring?

Start your story with:

“I knew this was no ordinary egg the moment it began to crack...”