

Pos :

- Keeps things fresh → water proof
- Plastic is cheap and easy to use
- Some plastics are reusable
- Widely used.

Cons :

- You can use other (reusable) materials to keep things fresh
- Hard to get rid of
- Biggest cause of ocean pollution
- Takes 1,000 of years to degrade

My LO: Picturing the seas

I can see plastic floating above the ocean and it makes me curious. It makes me curious because I really don't like people throwing one-use plastic bags. They sell them and supermarkets right? so it probably 5p for a one use plastic and 20p for a reusable bag. People think by getting the 5p one to save money, pick the 20p one to save animals!

I can see a turtle choking on a plastic bag and it makes me devastated. It makes me devastated because people are throwing away plastic bags and turtles eat them. They eat them because they look like jellyfish. And scientists have said that by 2050 turtles will be extinct. So next time when you're about to buy a plastic bag, have a think about where it will go.

I can see a beach that is overloaded with plastic and this makes me upset.

How do we keep our oceans clean?

Why do we litter?

How can we clean our oceans?

What's the point of littering?

Why don't people care about oceans?

Why did you litter?

Did the photographer save the turtle?

When will this stop?

How much litter is there in the ocean?

Picturing the Sea

I see plastic slowly killing the ocean. Plastic bags are floating around with other things killing animals. This makes me feel sad and guilty.

I can see a turtle trying to eat a plastic bag or trying to get into it thinking it's a jellyfish or home for it. I feel sorry for the turtle and worried.

A small beach or someone's back garden that has been filled with rubbish and plastic bottles, bags and even shoes.

A beach with plastic that has been washed up onto the shoreline. Now people and animals can't get and out of the ocean.

Questions about the pictures:

Will you help?

Why would people do this when they know this is affecting the planet?

Can we stop this?

How can we keep our oceans clean?

Why do people not care about the oceans?

How did it get this far?

How can we sort this out?

How can I help? I see that the turtle is stuck in plastic and trying to get out. Who started it? The plastic in the sea is floating around and it makes me sad and guilty that we're leaving our stuff doing.

The washed up rubbish makes me mad and angry because it's everywhere. Who checked the first piece of plastic?

Mylo: picturing the Seas.

I feel very guilty and upset because I've been putting things in the ocean.

I see plastic bags drowning in the ocean, gloves being filled up with the salty water.

I feel very bad for the turtle and very sad because the turtle is eating the plastic bag or laying their eggs in it.

I see a turtle going inside the clear plastic bag.

I feel very angry and upset about trash all over the sand.

Why do people do this?

How can we fix our ocean?

How to keep our oceans clean?

Why do people not about the ocean

Picturing the seas.

1. I see plastic in the sea that every sea creature could choke on and I feel silly, guilty and sad.

I see a turtle with a big plastic bag around its head. When I saw this picture I felt angry, unhappy and guilty.

I see a whole lot of trash on this poor man's house and I feel angry about all this.

I see a big pile of trash and I feel sad, guilty and angry.

How can we keep our oceans clean? both straight away

Need to be researched

people's opinions

1. I feel angry and guilty to see plastic in the ocean.

2. I Feel Sad and guilty that litter is on the beach.

3. I Feel Sad and angry For the turtle.

4. I am annoyed and heartbroken to see litter on the beach.

How can we let this happen?

Why do we ^{not} stop littering?

Picturing the seas.

In this picture I can see lots of rubbish and plastic, in deep water, which makes me feel depressed and upset. I feel like that because I know that there are lots of animals in the ocean that could be harmed by it.

In this picture I can see a turtle trying to eat a plastic bag, or probably thinking it's a jelly fish. It makes me feel like this could be prevented, very easily, just by people not littering.

In this picture I can see lots of rubbish and nothing else. This makes me feel sad because there are beautiful views in the world and then rubbish just ruins it.

How much litter is in the ocean?

Why do people do this?

What is the point?

My: Picturing the sea's.

① I can see 5 Plastic bags stuck to a couple sticks floating in the sea.

And that makes me feel very frustrated.

② I can see a turtle sticking its face into a Plastic bag.

And that makes me feel very very annoyed.

③ I can see a man standing next to the beautiful sea and all of the rubbish that has washed up next to him.

And that makes me feel very angry.

④ I can see Plastic going all down the beach that has been washed up.

And that makes me really sad.

⑤ I can also see some sort of glass floating in the water.

⑥ I can also see the turtle trying to eat the bag.

⑦ I can also see a lot of clothes and TVs and a lot of Plastic bags.

⑧ I can see Wood, bowls, plates and bottles.

Questions?

How did it get this far?

Why don't people stop?

What caused this to happen.
